Participant Induction Pack

Introduction

Welcome to the British Horse Society
Changing Lives Through Horses Programme.

The British Horse Society is the UK's largest equestrian charity and over the past 75 years has worked extremely hard for the benefit of horses as well as the people around them. As a charity we aim to create as many opportunities as we can for young people to enjoy and experience the wonder of horses as their natural talent and strengths can, in turn, help us learn our own.

The BHS has Approved Riding Centres all over the UK. These centres offer a safe and caring environment in which people like you can learn and work with qualified coaches and alongside the best life coach – the horse.

This induction pack contains important information regarding the programme and your time at the equestrian centre. It contains details about the awards and the resources you will receive during the programme. It also contains a code of conduct for both yourself and the equestrian centre. The code of conduct must always be adhered to, to ensure your time spent on the programme runs smoothly and is safe. Please be aware that your centre may have some additional rules for you to follow for your safety and enjoyment on the programme.

Through horses, the awards will help you to develop vital life skills which we all use in everyday life (such as confidence and responsibility) to achieve our goals. When working with horses, we discover natural talents and strengths we may not have known. Horses have the ability to teach us without us even knowing we are studying.

The programme has two award structures – The Achieve Awards and The Explorer Awards – both structures have horse care and ridden modules that you can progress through. Your coach will discuss with you which award structure to follow.

There is also the opportunity to follow a BHSQ accredited qualification called The Personal Development Qualification available at Entry Level 3, Level 1 and Level 2.

Programme Outcomes

The programme will focus on the six topics below and by working through the awards, you will start to develop skills in each of these areas.

Communication

Confidence

Teamwork

Responsibility

Building Relationships

Perseverance

How does it work?

Example task

Putting a headcollar on a horse

By learning how to put a headcollar on a horse, it develops your ability to approach a situation with care and confidence. You will learn how to read body language, to establish a rapport with another being, be able to consider an animal's comfort and social boundaries, develop a communication channel appropriate to the task and work as a team to develop an end goal.

Horses are incredible natural coaches. They respond to clear and effective communication and teach us this. Horses encourage us to develop confidence and self-esteem and give us the gift of self-belief allowing us to strive towards our chosen goals.

This example task will allow you to learn skills needed in everyday life to interact with others in a confident and friendly manner.

You will be given a book to record all of your achievements and things that you learn as you progress through the programme. You may also be asked to complete a survey periodically throughout your time so you and your coach can see how you are getting on.

More information on both of these is included in the resource section at the end of your pack.

For each award you complete you will receive a certificate which will enable you to start building a portfolio of achievement. A record of achievement is a great tool to use as you progress through your education and career.

Do's and Don'ts

Your centre is British Horse Society Approved which means the centre is regularly inspected to ensure they meet high standards of safety, horse welfare and teaching. It also means that the centre has the right insurance and complies with the latest Health and Safety legislation.

This means we are confident that you will be inspired and enjoy your equestrian experience through the programme in a safe and supportive environment.

What do you need to know before attending the centre?

- All visitors must report to the centre reception or a member of staff on arrival
- Any form of bullying will not be tolerated
- Any accident must be recorded on an accident form
- Any injuries or accidents to horses must be reported to a member of staff
- Any damage to tack or equipment must be reported directly to your coach
- Jewellery must be kept to a minimum to avoid injury
- Appropriate clothing and equipment must be worn at all times
(The centre may be able to provide suitable hats and boots for you)
- The welfare of the horses is a priority and should be considered at all times
- Any gates that you go through must be closed behind you
- Stable doors must be shut securely behind you

If you have any questions about any of the above points, please contact your programme coach (contact details can be found in the Important Information section of this pack).

Programme Introduction

Arriving at the Centre

When you arrive at the centre on your first day, you will need to make your way to reception, which will be clearly marked, where your 'Changing Lives through Horses' coach will be waiting for you.

During your first day at the centre, your coach will tell you about the programme and go through some of the things you might do during the first few sessions.

The Centre and the Horses

During the day you will be given a tour of the equestrian centre and a chance to meet some of the horses that live there.

Equipment

If the centre is providing you with equipment, they will discuss this with you during your first session and organise it for you at this time.

What Happens at the End?

The programme will look to support you with your next steps, whether you hope to continue into further education programmes with school or college, training opportunities including apprenticeships or are looking to work towards a career pathway of your choice and gain successful employment.

There are many possible progression opportunities from the programme which will allow you to continue to develop and be in an environment which supports the changes you have made.

We have listed some ideas below of possible next steps to help you think about the many opportunities out there and what you may like to do following your time with the programme:

Education

- Riding for the disabled Association Volunteer Scheme
- BHS Recreational Awards
- College Courses – the programme can support you to look into what courses are available that may be of interest to you and explain the application process
- Local apprenticeship opportunities – the programme can support you to look into what apprenticeships are available and explain the application process

Employment

- Apprenticeship scheme with the British Horseracing Authority
- BHS Professional Qualifications
- Local opportunities with BHS Centres
- Local opportunities with businesses or charities

Further support and information on the above is available from the BHS 'Changing Lives through Horses' team or from your programme delivery equestrian centre.
